

Preface, from Editor-in-chief Carter McGillis

A 50 Year retrospective on the second world war

Though it has been decades since armistice day, the scars of the Second Great War still linger on the west coast of Canada and the United States, with heavy hearts, the Assiniboia Free Press would like to dedicate this special Friday edition to remembering the turmoil we have all been through since that fateful night 50 years ago.

With dedication to those lost in the war and those lost that fateful night, we wish you a safe New Years, and May God Save the King.

The crash of the Ten no Sensha, outside the RM of Headingly, anonymous photographer

Karl Jungsen

The night the world changed

December 31st, 1932, a day of infamy

No one may ever know what truly happened that fateful night, save for those brave few who fought valiantly to stave off the advances of those who sought to dominate the world.

Let's look back at the events of the night: The ball hosted by dearly departed Queen Louise began early on the 31st, with dignitaries from the world over in attendance.

Of course, everyone knows the four most notable attendants: Joseph Stalin, Emperor Hirohito, Mahatma Gandhi and General Chiang Kai-Shek. Of course, numerous fringe and conspiratorial beliefs surround these individuals, so it is this writer's hope, and the hope of the Free Press, that this article may set the record straight. In terms of the events of that night.

As the night went on, the local security at the Royal Alexandria, along with the help of Assiniboia locals the Watcher's Men, secured the premise, eliminating any potential Snake interference, however, at around 10 pm reptilian lead insurgents staged an attack on the building.

In the commotion, the personal Wonder Guards of many of the dignitaries fell in battle, among them such greats as Rasputin and The Mounty. With heavy casualties all around, the Snakes had managed to infiltrate the security teams of seven world leaders.

Among these seven were then President Herbert Hoover, along with the leaders of Russia, the Soviet Union, the Republic of China (Now known as the Kingdom of the Serpent), the Dominion of India (Now known as the so-called Sultanate of the Snake), Imperial Japan and the Weimar Republic (Now Dutchlandia).

Five of these individuals were saved or otherwise avenged by the Watcher's Men, with Kurt von Schleicher (Weimar Republic) being saved by on-duty SRCMP officer Bud Currie, who also avenged the murder of Joseph Stalin (Leader of the Soviet Union at the time), by killing the Snake who shot him.

The Czar of Russia, Nikolas II was struck with luck, when the Snake in his midst suffered an act-of-god embolism as the train they were on sped away from Portage, earlier that night his private Zeppelin had experienced engine trouble and was forced to land.

The Czar of Russia, Nikolas II was struck with luck, when the Snake in his midst suffered an act-of-god embolism as the train they were on sped away from Portage, earlier that night his private Zeppelin had experienced engine trouble and forced to land.

Herbert Hoover had been saved by Assiniboia's own White Ghost and Dusty, having managed to stop the train they were departing on with an impromptu blockade.

And tragically, the Hero of the night, The Shadow, lost his life, along with that of Emperor Hirohito in a blimp explosion, caused by the Snake in their presence blowing up the blimp, rather than be captured.

And of course, that leaves us with the two kidnapped leaders, Gandhi and Shek, whose whereabouts to this day are unknown, likely kept in some political prison in those countries now run by Snakes.

Japan Threatens Nukes!

Imperial Japan again threatens war in the pacific

Brinny Wilson

The office of Hirohito III has again issued a warning of aggression against all outsiders, this marks the 39th consecutive year of Japan's isolationist policy, following the second world war.

Page 4

Soviet-Russian Union?

Comrade Trotsky in Talks with Empress Anastasia over unification

Adam Jorge

Moscow, talks are underway to forge a re-unified Russia, could we see a socialist parliamentary Monarchy in the works?

Page 5

A Way Forward to Peace

Snake Emperor Sss'Bych to talk at the UN

Lorem Ipsum

The Snake Emperor promises an end to the interspecies hostilities, but is the world ready to forgive the pain caused on that New Year's night?

Page 5