Christmas Town

Christmas Town is where Santa and his elves live. It's where in better times happy elves made toys for good little girls and boys. But now Christmas Town feels no joy. The dynamic has been upset up the arrival of Kris Kringle and his wife Jessica. Through the efforts of FOE Kris and his wife were transported to Christmas Town. Kris goal is to make toys so he can make the children of the world happy. He and Santa did not hit it off well. Santa is not ready to retire and he's not keen on sharing. This has left Kris only one option. A hostile takeover!

Santa wasn't having this but some of the elves found Kris' talk of change and modernization to be all too tempting. Now many of the elves are divided, some following Santa and others Kris. They've seen one too many gangster movies and have set their toy making skills to making weapons. They've had to use their home workshops as the main factory is now off-limits to the feuding sides. Mrs. Claus has joined forces with Jessica and the female elves. They've taken over the factory and the stables for the flying reindeer and are keeping everyone out until the boys settle this nonsense.

The Residents of Christmas Town

Christmas Town is inhabited by many families of elves. Many used to work in the Toy Factory and were happy to do so. Now all work has halted and the elves are getting titchy. They need to make stuff. The adult population of Christmas Town is 600 divided evenly between male and female. Here's how allegiances have developed:

- 100 or so male elves dressed in red and green follow Santa.
- 100 or so male elves dressed in green and red follow Kris.
- 100 other male elves who have decided to sit this mess out.
- 300 female elves dressed in Christmas camouflage follow Mrs. Claus and Jessica. They are better organized than the male elves and have been practicing more with their weapons. They're all armed with Red Ryders with sniper scopes.
